

Louis Rose

Professor of European History, Otterbein University

The Role of the Psychoanalyst in Times of Historical Crisis: The Example of Ernst Kris

Feb 12, 2015

3:30 p.m.

University Hall 056

main campus

Louis Rose is Professor of Modern European History at Otterbein University in Ohio, a member of the Trustees of the Sigmund Freud Archives, Library of Congress, and the Editor of American Imago.

His book, The Freudian Calling: Early Viennese Psychoanalysis and the Pursuit of Cultural Science (Wayne State University, 1998) received the 1999 Austrian Cultural Institute Prize for Best Book in Austrian Studies. He is the author of The Survival of Images: Art Historians, Psychoanalysts, and the Ancients (Wayne State University, 2001).

He received his B.A. in History from Clark University and his Ph.D. in History from Princeton University and was a Fulbright Fellow in Vienna.